

THURSDAY, JULY 22, 1880.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES A. GARFIELD,
Of Ohio.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR,
Of New York.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

An earthquake shook up New Hampshire before yesterday.

A Berlin dispatch says that negotiations with Rome are virtually broken off.

The Chicago Times' New York special says Jay Gould predicts the election of General Hancock.

The Chicago Times says Gen. Chambers, the Greenback candidate for Vice President, will withdraw, on account of ill health.

A number of Democratic leaders will meet at White Sulphur Springs on Saturday to endeavor to harmonize the opposing factions in Virginia.

Maine advises are that the Democratic alliance is likely to fall to pieces. The Greenbackers claim that the Democratic electors are hard money men.

There is trouble threatened between the whites and Indians in Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory owing to the encroachments of settlers on Crows Valley, from which the Indians have been accustomed to procure their annual supply of camas root. The Indians threaten to take forcible possession unless the whites leave.

Parnell, as President of the Home Rule Confederation of Great Britain, has issued a circular to all Home Rule organizations in Great Britain, summoning them to appoint delegates for a convention to be held at Castle-on-Tyne on the 9th of August, and stating that it is of the utmost importance now that attention should be directed to Ireland, and Irishmen in Great Britain should show that they are sincere in their advocacy of Irish rights.

FOR GARFIELD.

We ask our readers to give the letter of our old friend, Hon. P. A. Orton, of Darlington, Wisconsin, which we publish to-day, announcing his intention to vote for General Garfield for President, the careful perusal which its merits demand, and we also commend this forcible utterance to the attention of candid citizens everywhere, who, like Judge Orton, have heretofore voted the Democratic ticket. The high position which Judge Orton occupies at the bar, as one of the ablest lawyers in the State, and the confidence which he enjoys as a conscientious and upright citizen, will give weight to this expression of his conviction of duty. Tens of thousands of Northern Democrats have long felt restive under the constantly increasing and recurring demands of the Southern Democracy that the North shall surrender the results of the war; and concede to them not only all the sacred principles involved in the contest, but pay them from the National Treasury immense sums of money as a compensation for the losses which their treason to the Government brought upon them. That these results are certainly involved in the attitude and purposes of the Democratic party, every unprejudiced citizen feels and knows; and, in their candid conversations with Northern men, the Southern leaders do not hesitate to admit that Judge Orton claims is sure to result from the ascendancy of the Democratic party.

A Chicago gentleman, out of politics, was in Mentor recently, and met Garfield. He writes to the Journal that the gentleman is simple of heart and great of mind as Abraham Lincoln, and the people will make no mistake by electing him. "I wish every reader of your paper and every citizen of the United States could glory in electing him President, knowing that he is not only a truly honest man, but a truly great and good man."

Judge Jere Black writes a letter to the editor of the Philadelphia Times, in which he praises both Garfield and Hancock, adding: "If he (Garfield) carries the principles which regulate his private life into his public conduct he would make the best Chief Magistrate we have ever had."

Hon. John H. Rand, of Elko, is mentioned in connection with the Republican Electoral ticket, and his Elko friends will urge his claims as one of the electors. Mr. Rand is very popular in his own home, and his Republicanism is unquestioned.

FOR GARFIELD.

Hon. P. A. Orton gives Reasons for preferring the Republican Candidate for President.

DARLINGTON, Wis., July 6, 1880.
EDITORS REPUBLICAN:—After all the thought I am capable of giving the subject, I have concluded it is my duty, to vote for, and do all in my power to promote the election of Hon. James A. Garfield, President of the U. S., and I shall do so.

Having uniformly acted with the Democratic party in the past, it is proper I should give the reasons which have impelled me to this course, which in brief I will do.

I am fully aware of the severe censure which is almost universally visited upon those who, for any cause, forsake old political associations. Bad motives are generally assigned for the change. I cannot expect exemption from such censure, though fully conscious, that I am governed only by a sense of duty, which it would be positively wrong in me to disregard.

Many of my oldest, best and most cherished friends are Democrats. I ask of them the exercise of that charity which our long friendship and the confidence which I hope they have in my integrity will inspire.

On the day of the evacuation of New York City by the British in 1783, at a dinner given in honor of the event by Gov. Clinton, at which Washington and other distinguished revolutionists were present, who knew full well the cost of the nation's liberty, the following toast was given, "May justice support what courage has gained."

This sentiment so prominent in the minds of our forefathers, after their struggle for independence, ought to have infinitely greater weight with us. In the light of a century's history we have seen the manifold dangers to which the Republic is exposed, and have seen the most formidable rebellion in the world's history, deliberately organized for its overthrow, only put down by a sacrifice of life and treasure, which it is appalling to contemplate.

At no time ought the American people to invoke justice to protect what courage has gained with the ferocity which it is their patriotic duty now to do. The grandest results of the late civil war are the preservation of the Union and the abolition of slavery in the Republic. The all important principle established by it, that no State has a right to secede, that the United States is a nation, supreme within its jurisdiction, or the extent of which it is the sole judge.

No grander results ever adorned the brow of any conqueror. They are worthy the American people, and justice imperatively demands at our hands, that no one jot or tittle of these grand achievements shall be surrendered or placed in jeopardy.

Whatever the Democratic party may have been in the past, it is essentially and absolutely the party of the South to-day. Of the 185 electoral votes required to elect a President this Fall, the Democratic party count the 138 votes from the solid South, made up of the States which seceded, or wanted to secede, and dare not, solid in advance for its candidate. The balance, 47 votes, they hope to get in the North. Thirty-five of them they confidently expect from the city of New York, for the State of New York, outside the city, is as strongly Republican as Wisconsin. The remaining 12 votes they hope to receive from some of the doubtful Northern States.

It is said the Democratic candidates are northern men, but it is not true that the South were compelled to nominate northern men, in order to give any assurance of success at the election? Could the South have done less, and have been true to their purpose, to get control of the government? It matters not who the President is, if he is controlled by the South.

The record of the Democratic party in Congress for the last ten years has justly excited the suspicions of northern men. The promises to the people made in the Democratic platform of 1876, of civil service and revenue reforms, and upon which the people acted in giving the party control in Congress, are entirely unfulfilled. Civil service reform has gone no farther than to unnecessarily restrict appropriations, by which the efficiency of the service in some branches has been greatly impaired, and large appropriations to cover deficiencies, have been necessary, while millions have been thrown away for the improvement of rivers and harbors all over the nation. Revenue reform culminated in the selection of Mr. Randall as Speaker of the House, a protectionist of the most determined sort, by whom the House was so organized that no measure for revenue reform would be reported from the committee to which it was necessarily referred. While a great part of the time of Congress has been occupied in the discussion of measures unsought and unasked by the North, and of interest only to the South, such as, for instance, as amnesty to Mr. Davis, the repeal of the election supervisor law, which were urged with a zeal worthy a better cause, but forced approval by the President, being attempted by tacking them to appropriation bills. At least one of these measures was urged through Congress upon the old state bellum idea of States Rights, denying to Congress the power to exercise any control of elections even, when members of Congress and a President were to be elected.

To be sure this party of the South has a respectable following at the North. There is, however, this obvious difference between the southern and northern Democracy: They equally desire success; the South primarily that they may have political power, the North that they may have political place. They work together very harmoniously now. The South must have help from the North to be successful. To secure this help the spoils of the victory are promised to the northern Democracy. Both sections are not satisfied with the arrangement, but sooner or later the good and patriotic men of the northern Democracy will see that they have sold at an invaluable birthright for trinkets, and that they have been used as tools by their southern associates. If the South had the strength unaided to elect a President, will anybody believe Wade Hampton would have stood up, as he did, in the National Convention of the party at Cincinnati, and pledged the 138 electoral votes of the South to the candidate for President the North might select? The temper of the South at this time will justify no such conclusion.

Jeff Davis said but a short time ago, that the principles of the Confederacy were eternal, because right. Beyond doubt this is the opinion of the great mass of the white population of the South.—They failed on the battle-field to maintain these principles, and now seek the same object, substantially, by political manipulations through the Democratic party.

This practical question then presents itself to every honest voter in the North: Is it wise or just, and ought the American people to place the Republic in the control of this party of the South?

Will the national credit be safe in its hands? Will the national treasury be safe in its hands? Or will not rather its doors be thrown open to satisfy the greed of thousands of southern claimants, whose loyalty can be easily established to the satisfaction of this southern party? Will the principle that the Republic is a nation be honestly respected and acquiesced in by a people who individually believe that it is a lie, established by might and not right? Is the right of all classes of citizens at the South to vote respected, so that their elections can be considered a fair and intelligent expression of public sentiment? Or are such results simply dictated by a class, desperate for political power? Will the North be true to the noble history it has made, now to pass the government over to the control of the very men who fought to destroy it? Will this be just to the memory of those slain in its defense? Can the politicians of the easy-going South appreciate the needs of the great, energetic, progressive North? And will they be disposed to regard them?

The policy of conciliation is urged. It will be well to remember that not a single prosecution for treason has followed the great rebellion. Universal amnesty has practically been granted. The policy of the government has been lenient to the extreme. To ask the North to yield to the South any of the substantial results of the war, is asking too much. That would be an outrage upon the patriotism which secured those results. It would be an evidence of weakness and a virtual admission that the North and not the South were in the wrong in that great struggle, which I am not disposed to admit. Yours truly,

P. A. ORTON.

OREGON NEWS ITEMS.

Jackson county has 8,200 inhabitants. Grant county reports a population of 4,433.

The Columbia and Willamett rivers are rapidly falling.

A little son of James McHargue of Brownsville Linn county, was drowned July 17th in Calapoola river.

In the annual regatta which took place at Portland, July 17th, the Wide Awake took the first money and the day; the Oregonian the second money; Fleetwing third, and the Water Lily fourth.

July 17th a man named Price and a Chinaman had an altercation near Dallas, in Polk county. In the course of the row Price stabbed the Chinaman in the groin, inflicting a very dangerous wound.

In the running race, two mile heats, at East Portland Driving Park, Saturday, Edith H won in two straight heats; time, 3:45%—3:55. The single dash of one mile was won by Record, Mayflower second; time, 1:52%.

A dead horse, saddled, but without a bridle, was found on Clatsop beach a few days ago. A bundle, containing several articles of a man's wearing apparel, was found near at hand. No one in the immediate neighborhood recognized the animal, and it is probable that it and its rider were drowned while attempting to cross some swollen stream putting out from Tillamook or Nehalem Valleys, and afterwards floated into the ocean.

Says the Portland Oregonian: By this time the necessity of raising the grades of the lower end of the city must be apparent to all. Twice within four years, and three times within eighteen years, has that part of the city been submerged by the annual rise of the Columbia river. The overflow is likely to take place any year. We can never be sure that it will not happen. To raise the lower part of the city is the only protection against it, as the water so percolates the soil that a levee would be useless.

CROPS AND HERDS.—An Elko correspondent of the Enterprise reports the condition of crops in that section as first-class, as will be seen by reading the annexed:

A recent visit to Clover, Star and Huntington Valleys, also to Snake and up and down the main Humboldt, enables me to report most favorable prospects for an exceedingly heavy crop of all kinds of grain, vegetables and hay, notwithstanding the late and cold spring that lingered away into early summer. The grass crop for grazing purposes has never been better; particularly is this so north of the railroad, on the North Fork, Mary's and Bruno rivers; also, in the neighborhood of Independence Valley, Mountain City and Island Mountain. In fact the whole northern country, known as Northeastern Nevada, presents now to the eye one immense field or ocean of grass, covered with herds of fat cattle and fine-looking horses. The general loss of cattle in consequence of the cold winter and late spring is now known to be much less than was anticipated last spring.

During Mr. Daggett's term in Congress he has made an excellent Representative and faithfully served his State. —[Pioche Record.]

The San Leandro Reporter states that a party of young men from that section who have been to the Skagit mines have returned and say the mines are worthless.

E. W. Britt, a Lakeport lawyer, lately rowed out half a mile into the lake and, depositing his clothes in the boat, plunged in for a swim. A breeze arose, and drifted the boat beyond his reach. He was rescued after swimming nearly to the shore, but his boat and clothes cannot be found.

A road is to be built from Long Valley, Lake county, to Indian Valley, Colusa. This gives the people of the former place connection with the Sacramento Valley.

Ventura had a pig race on the Fourth. The pigs were driven and had a ten foot rope attached. The prize went to the pig that traveled the greatest distance in two hours, and the winner made an even nine miles.

The Contra Costa Gazette reports a fire last Tuesday on the ranch of the McCabe brothers, six miles west of Brentwood. Mr. Sharp of Ygnacio Valley, was thrashing the crop, and about sunset, while the thrashing party was at supper, a cloud of smoke was seen, and on rushing in the direction they found the separator, cleaner and derrick forks destroyed, as well as the product of fifty acres of grain in sacks.

Last Wednesday, says the Haywards Journal, Andy Harrington captured a deer in a singular manner. He was fishing in the San Lorenzo Creek, two miles east of Haywards, when his attention was attracted by a rushing noise above him and a young deer dashed down the hill at full speed, closely followed by two coyotes. Harrington dropped behind a bush, and the deer, turning down the creek bed flew by the bush so close that he was able to grapple him, and after a brief struggle succeeded in capturing the prize. The deer, which only weighed about thirty pounds, was brought home and purchased by Colonel Hayward.

Torrid Heat.

The heated term is here. Existence is felt by most people to be a burden. Ice water is at a premium and shirt collars are nowhere. The mere statement that it was hot yesterday taken as a statement unqualified, unillustrated, unemphasized, unadorned with profanity, naked, bare and bald, was justly felt by the community to be totally inadequate and unworthy of the occasion. It was found to be true by those who labored to find a word more fitting than the bare expression "hot" was the only one that applied to the day, and it was realized generally that amendments to the unabridged are in order.

Moonlight Dance.

Price of Timber Lands Fixed.

The Board of Regents of the State University met in the Surveyor General's office, at Carson, yesterday for the purpose of fixing the price per acre of the timber land lately granted to the State in lieu of the 18th and 36th sections. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the price of State timber land containing nut-pine, cedar, juniper or mountain mahogany be fixed at one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, and that land containing other pine, fir, tamarack or other timber suitable for manufacturing into lumber or timbers, be fixed at two dollars and fifty cents per acre, and that there shall not be sold a less quantity than one hundred and sixty (160) acres of timber land in one body. Said body of land shall be selected in compact form in conformity with the rules and regulations in the sale of lands by the United States Government.

Resolved, That the Land Registrar is hereby authorized to ascertain the true character of timber lands applied for, by requiring the applicant to make affidavit and produce the affidavits of two disinterested witnesses as to whether any part of said lands contain timber capable of being manufactured into lumber, and make such other rules and regulations as will protect the best interests of the State. Such affidavits may be made before the Clerk of the District Court or any person authorized by law to administer oaths, having a seal.

President Board of Regents.

School Teachers.

The Board of School Trustees—Messrs Kinkaid, Bragg and McFarlin—held a meeting last evening and elected the following teachers for the ensuing year: Principal, Orvis King; Miss L. A. Royce, Miss Emery, Miss Frank Gibbs, Miss Wilcox, Miss Warren, Miss Payne, Mrs. Bourne. Two new teachers have been added, Miss Wilson, who has been teaching at Browns. The old corps remain the same, with the exception of Miss McNeely, who retires to give place to Miss Payne.

Indian Affairs.

Mr. Jas. E. Spencer, U. S. Indian Agent for Nevada, was in town yesterday. He expects Secretary Schurz to arrive in Wadsworth on Sunday evening, and visit the Pyramid Reservation on Monday. There are not many Indians on the Reservation at this time. Mr. Spencer has made many improvements since he has been in charge, and intends to make many more. We think his administration of affairs will be a successful one.

The Donner Picnic.

The excursion to Donner Lake was a perfect success. Two cars were filled, and the party reached Truckee on time. They each and everyone declare that they passed one of the most pleasant days of their life. The weather was splendid, and there was no lack of amusement. The party left the lake for home at 5 p. m. and arrived here at 7:45, in high spirits, and eager for the moonlight dance this evening.

To Candidates.

When a citizen wants an office he makes it known that he is a candidate. An announcement will cause a discussion as to his character and qualifications which, if good, will benefit him. None but good men will care to have their claims discussed, and it will only cost five dollars, strictly in advance, to start the talk. The columns of the JOURNAL are now open.

Cain.

Cain arrived from Pyramid last evening, and his appearance on the street was the signal for a rush toward him of his friends, to congratulate him upon the fact that he was still in the land of the living. He looks and feels weak. He says it is not yet time for the bodies of the drowned boy and man to come to the surface, but he thinks they will, and has men on the lookout.

Run Over.

Geo. Short was run over day before yesterday by the back-action wagon of Haley's team, on the Peavine road, about two miles from town. The wheels passed over his bowels. He was removed to the hospital.

A Sluice Robber Killed.

A Portuguese, aged 25, was shot at the Spring Valley Mining Co.'s flume, at Caerokee, near Oroville, Tuesday night, while in the act of robbing the flume, by two boys, aged about 12 and 16, who were on the night watch. The man was killed instantly.

Dr. Tanner's first exiles considerable curiosity in London. The papers copy long accounts of the case from the latest New York journals.

E. C. Fellows, Assistant General Superintendent of the Central Pacific Railroad, died Tuesday morning at Oakland.

The five men and two women who were robbed in Idaho the other day, while traveling by stage, were stripped stark naked by the robbers, and compelled to walk in a procession for seven miles to the nearest settlement.

When Tilden subscribes $100,000 for the Democratic canvass, the Nevada Democratic papers are loud in praise of what they are pleased to call his patriotism, but if a Republican contributes anything for his party's campaign expenses, they set up a cry about the sack. That has made the sack so potent in Nevada when used by Republicans is the fact that so many Democrats are so easily influenced by its contents.—[Enterprise.]
